

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A counterweight apparatus is provided for automatically self-returning an enclosure sash or other closure member to at least one preselected intermediate position when released after being opened beyond that intermediate position and for selectively maintaining the closure member in at-rest positions, when released, between that intermediate position and a fully closed position.